YE GODS! MARSE HENRI WEEPS ON WOODROW'S SHOULDER!

Washington, Oct. 18.—Henry Watterson, of Louisville, editor, called on President Wilson at the White House today, following the example set two weeks ago by George Harvey, former editor of a weekly paper. The meetings marked the end of the controversy between the President and the two editors, which arose during Mr. Wilson's pre-nomination campaign for the presidency.

Colonel Watterson, like Colonel Harvey, went to the White House at the invitation of the President. He remained with Mr. Wilson for more than an hour, and later the visit was described as entirely pleasant and harmonious. The President and the editor are related by marriage, and their talk was said to have been largely personal.

Every incident of the visit emphasized the restoration of good relations. Colonel Watterson went to the White House with the President's secretary, Mr. Tamm, and during the afternoon rode about the city in a White House automobile.

Recently Colonel Watterson had been supporting the President in his editorials, and an exchange of friendly letters following Mrs. Wilson's death was said today by friends of both men to have made the meeting free of embarrassment. Every effort was made at the White House to make Colonel Watterson feel that the President had forgotten the former unpleasantness.

It was the Colonel's first visit to the executive mansion during the present administration, and his first meeting with Mr. Wilson since the dinner at a New York club at which the controversy started.

Mr. Watterson had expected to leave for New York tonight, but received an invitation to lunch tomorrow with former President Taft and decided to stay over.

THE DEATH HUSSARS

As proof of the supposed unreliability of some of the European war news an observer calls attention to the fact that the dispatches have three times (but the Death Hussars of the German army have been almost "wiped out" in fierce engagements in the North of France.

There is nothing impossible in this to one who knows the organization of this body of troops. The Death Hussars of Danzig is, barring none, the most famous regiment in the German army. It was recruited up to its full strength, a force of 1000 officers and men, and there are probably 400 officers and men hoping to be transferred to this regiment as a reward for distinguished field service. After each battle a list is made up of the officers and men who deserve recognition and one of the most coveted forms of promotion is a transfer to the Death Hussars. In this way this regiment is always kept strong and the new blood brought in is the best in the German army.—Louisville Post.

GOVERNMENT AID

(From the Boston Advertiser.)

At a time when the national revenues have fallen off in distressing and amazing fashion, Congress is being importuned to spend even more money than usual out of the national treasury, for various subsidies to American industries of one sort or another. There is no sense or reason in such a policy. We in the East suffer from the war, too; but we have not asked the Federal Government to pay subsidies to our mills and our foundries, to keep them in a position to pay their usual dividends. The Democratic party was put in power, on its cry that the Republicans were granting privileges to "special interests." It has done more of that since 1912 than the Republican party ever dared to attempt in its worst days.

(From Fibre and Fabric.)

The cotton growers ask the government to finance the cotton crop. If such procedure is possible, why not ask the same for the cotton mills and the woolen mills? It would be just as sensible and practically all of our mills would like to borrow direct from the government at two or three per cent. instead of paying five to seven per cent. for their money.

The growers have thrown out their chests during the past few years and have been able to keep fancy prices for cotton with the aid of their allies, the gamblers, and now, in a pinch, the first call is for help. Mills do not want six or eight cent cotton. A ten cent basis is about right, and American mills will take enough on such a basis to prevent any great disaster.

Political Pickings

(Philadelphia Press.)

It may be that Boss William Flinn was at one time or another for somebody besides himself, but if so he was never caught at it.

(St. Louis Globe-Democrat.)

Every President wants a second term as a vindication; and we know a former one who wants a third term for the same reason.

(St. Louis Times.)

It is not believed that the strife over the water will check the output of imported cheese made in Wisconsin.

(Philadelphia Press.)

Besides standing for an income tax we will now have to give up again on account of a bumper crop tax.

(Chicago News.)

If Holland should be invaded it might be hard for Colonel Roosevelt to maintain his neutrality.

WHAT'S IN A NAME?

A Northern school teacher was spending her vacation down South, and, as she was passing a tumble-down shanty, she heard an old negro call to a child:
 "Come hesh, yo' Esh! Esh!"
 "That seems like a very peculiar name for a child, auntie," said the teacher.
 "Dat ain't her full name," answered the mother with pride. "Dat's jest de pet name I calls her fer short. It's a mighty grand name wot-dat child has got. I picked it out'n a medicine book. Dat child's full name an Ezema."

ELKDOM BOOMING IN ASHLAND.

(Ashland Independent.)
 The Ashland Lodge of Elks met last night in regular session and voted on a list of candidates, 64 in number and all were elected. They also received a list of eleven new applications, making a total of 75 new applications that have come to this lodge within the past 30 days.
 One reason for this rapid growth of Elks is the closing out of the Park City Club. Another is the well defined understanding that after the first of January, 1915, the initiation fee is to be advanced to $50.
 The new Elk Home is coming along nicely, and it will be completed by November 15th, beyond doubt.
